Flying Stick Cause of Death of Angevine at Sawmill in Wittenberg

Worker Fails to Dodge Missile as It Came Toward Him With Great Force From Saw Near Which He Was Working.

LUNGS PUNCTURED

Struck in Chest, Mr. Angevine Suffered Broken Ribs Which Punctured His Lungs.

Edwin Angevine, 30, of Wittenberg, suffered fatal injuries Saturday afternoon while at work in the sawmill of Roland Shultz in that village. About 4:30 o'clock Mr. Shultz, his son, Harley, and Mr. Angevine were at work in the mill. A board had been placed on the mill to be edged when suddenly the stick loosened from the carriage and was driven backward with great force by the large saw.

Roland Shultz saw the stick fly toward him and he managed to dodge it as it flew past at terrific speed.

The stick struck Mr. Angevine in the chest, crushing several ribs and causing fatal injuries.

Mr. Angevine had been a lifelong resident of Wittenberg and had been employed several years at the Shultz sawmill. At the time of the accident Mr. Angevine was some distance from the saw but apparently was unable to dodge the stick as it was driven back by the huge saw.

Wife Summoned

Aid was immediately called, and Mrs. Angevine was called but before she arrived at the mill her husband had died. Medical aid was summoned but was of no avail, the lungs were punctured by the broken ribs.

Coroner Lasher was summoned and directed that an autopsy be performed by Dr. George D. Pace of Saugerties and Dr. George S. Lambert of Woodstock.

Mr. Angevine is survived by his wife, Amy Gardner Angevine, his mother, Mrs. Martha Angevine of Wittenberg, and also by four brothers, Marshall R., Walter L., Oscar and Ira Angevine, all of Wittenberg, and three sisters, Mrs. Albert Beattie of Springfield, Mass., Miss Minnie Angevine of Kingston and Miss Eva Angevine of New York city.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon from the late residence at 2 o'clock and burial will be in Woodstock cemetery. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Orson Rice, pastor of the Woodstock M. E. Church. Bearers will be Everett Short, James Shultz, Floyd Stone and Lawrence Hogan.

Comforter Pastor And Wife Injured; Were Going Home

Early this morning at DeWitt's Hill on the Rosendale road, a car owned by John W. Isherwood of Mt. Vernon, and driven by his companion Eugene Bradley, also of Mt. Vernon, collided as it was proceeding toward Kingston with a car driven by the Rev. Cornelius P. Muykens, who is to be installed as pastor of the Church of The Comforter on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Jean Muykens who was riding with her husband, received laceration of the face, and was brought to the Kingston Hospital for treatment and observation. A report from the hospital this morning stated that Mrs. Muykens' condition was much improved and that she would be removed to the home of Mrs. Howard Allion on Staples street this afternoon.

Arnold Wiltz Dies Saturday Night at Local Hospital

The Rev. Cornelius Muykens was also slightly cut but did not require hospital treatment. Eugene Bradley, driver of the other car, received injuries to his leg.

Investigations were made by State Trooper Arthur Reilly and Deputy Sheriff McCullough. The officers stated that the accident occurred when the Isherwood car, a new Studebaker sedan, skidded on the slippery highway. Both cars were considerably damaged by the impact, which turned them around, headed in the same direction.

Attempts to obtain the Rev. Mr. Muykens' version of the accident failed, because he had been awake the entire night and was sleeping this morning.

Arnold Wiltz Dies Saturday Night at Local Hospital

Arnold Wiltz, of Woodstock, a painter with works in many leading galleries, died of pneumonia in Rosedale Hospital Saturday night. He was 47 years old.

His wife, L. Madeline Shiff, also a painter, is critically ill in the same hospital. She was informed of her husband's death today. A son, Eric Wiltz, of Woodstock, also survives. At Mr. Wiltz's request, there will be no funeral services. He will be buried at the local church.

Mr. Wiltz had lived in the Woodstock art colony since 1911 and exhibited regularly at the Woodstock shows. He was an expert skier and helped start the movement to make Woodstock a winter sports center.

An art show in his memory will be held in Woodstock next June, according to tentative plans.

ST. VINCENT MOTHERS MEET ON APRIL 1 AT SCHOOL HALL

The next meeting of the Mother's Association of St. Vincent's Academy, Marysville, this year, will be held on April 1 at 2:30 o'clock in the school auditorium. Mrs. Walter Miller, president, announced today.

The Rev. Mr. Muykens and his wife were bound for home at the time the accident occurred, the minister having completed his duties in connection with the Church of The Comforter. As yet the young couple has not moved to Kingston but are residing at Gardiner, where Mr. Muykens was the minister before he left to join the local church. On Wednesday evening of this week, Mr. Muykens will be installed as the new minister of the Comforter Church.

Dr. Shotwell Announces 152 Volumes on World War Completed After 23 Years

Rovegno Dies, Auto Crash on Saugerties Road Is Responsible

Effects of what was thought to be a slight head injury, suffered in a minor auto accident Saturday afternoon about 1:45 o'clock, near Schoenag's Hotel on the Saugerties road, proved fatal to Anthony L. Rovegno of California, formerly of Saugerties and Dr. George D. Pace of Saugerties.

The work has been completed after 23 years by authors and editors who held posts of importance in 12 belligerent and neutral nations.

Entitled "Social and Economic History of the World War," the work traces the effects of the war on the countries which were involved directly and those which abstained from hostilities, analyzes the nature of the war's displacement and calculates the approximate cost to the world. Thirty-five war-time cabinet ministers are among the contributors.

In Many Languages.

More than 200,000 copies of the volumes have been printed in the languages in which they were written originally: English, Italian, French, German, Norwegian, Swedish, Danish, Czech and Hungarian. An additional series on Russia, contributed by officials of the Czarist government, were printed in English.

Three volumes complete the American group: "War History of American Railroads," by W. D. Hines; "The Cost of the War to the American People," by John Maurice Clark, and "Introduction to the American Official Sources for the Economic and Social History of the World War," Leland-Merriweather. The Yale University Press was American publisher.

Proposed by Elihu Root.
Proposed by Elihu Root in 1914 when he was United States Senator from New York and president of the endowment, the work marked time for several years as the war spread through Europe and into neighboring continents and was not actively resumed until Dr. Shotwell was appointed chairman of the division of history of the American delegation to the Peace Conference. During the six years following the Versailles Treaty, he remained in Europe setting up editorial boards for the great history in the major countries.

One of the most striking pictures conjured up by the history is the similarity of social and economic life during war-time in nations engaged in the conflict and those others which presented technical novelty. Dr. Shotwell commented yesterday.

"The war involved all parts of the world," he said, "neutrals as well as combatants. The Scandinavian countries and Holland seemed at first to have profited like the United States when it was neutral but after the balance was struck ten years after the war and the depleted buying power of Europe cut in on the

Several Injured In Accident Near Ireland Corners

Several persons were injured and the cars in which they were riding were badly damaged following a collision at 5:45 Sunday evening on the New Paltz-Ireland Corners road, about a mile and a half from the latter village.

The accident occurred when the Ford roadster driven by Cornelius Wolf of 2 Russell street, Kingston, struck the rear end of Nash sedan operated by Howard Sherwood, 54, of New Paltz. The Sherwood car had run off on the shoulder of the road, according to the story told by Sheriff Andrew Klein, who made an investigation, and in an attempt to skid it back on to the highway it skidded and made a complete circle, just as the Wolf car came along.

Miss Dolores McNamara, a nurse at the Benedictine Hospital, who was riding with Wolf, was cut about the face and had several teeth knocked out. Mr. Sherwood suffered cuts about the head which it took a number of stitches to close and Mrs. Sherwood had slight injuries to her right arm. Mrs. Sarah Wier of New Paltz, who with her husband was riding in the Sherwood car, received head injuries.

The injured people were treated by Dr. Virgil DeWitt of New Paltz.

THREE APPEAR BEFORE CULLOTON IN COURT

Three defendants were arraigned before Judge Bernard A. Culloton in police court this morning, two for public intoxication and one for disorderly conduct.

George Barringer, 48, of Chapel street, arrested Sunday by Patrolman William Hess for being drunk.

Edward J. Hannan, 42, of Quincy, Mass., was committed to jail for three days, lacking the fine, on a similar charge.

Michael Corcoran, 27, of 527 Delaware Avenue, arrested Saturday night for disorderly conduct, on complaint of his wife, Mrs. Clara Corcoran, was ordered to pay $5 a week for the support of their child and to stay away from the family home.

MAN MADE ELECTRICAL OUT BASIS OF SUIT

An action in negligence arising out of alleged poor construction or maintenance of a sub-station owned by the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company is the basis for an action brought in Supreme Court by Herbert M. Quick.

It is alleged that the plaintiff was severely injured when a bolt of electricity from a substation in the town of Marlborough flashed out due to some alleged defective installation. Serious injury resulted.

The defendant denies defective operation or maintenance and claims the injured lad had no right to be where he was when he was injured.

The selection of a jury was undertaken this morning.

Senate Attention Focuses on Controversy When Norris Proposes Amendment — Supreme Court Upholds Brush Contention.

8 CASES HELD

Supreme Court Stirs Speculation By Refusing to Review Eight Cases on Wagner Act.

Washington, March 15 (AP)—Labor Leader William Green will go before the Senate Judiciary Committee tomorrow to advocate enactment of President Roosevelt's plan to reorganize the Federal courts.

His scheduled appearance was announced today by the Committee Chairman Ashurst (D-Ariz.) who said he would be followed on the stand by Justin Miller, president of the Federal Bar Association and former dean of the Duke and University of Southern California law schools.

Revenue authorities estimated more than 3,000,000 returns—half the total expected—would be filed during the day. All offices will remain open until the midnight deadline.

March receipts are expected to aggregate $840,000,000, the largest total since world war days. If this estimate is borne out, officials said the Treasury may not have to borrow any additional funds this fiscal year.

Renewed attention of the Senate was focused on the controversy today when Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.) proposed a constitutional amendment to limit terms of judges to nine years and legislation to require a two-thirds vote of the court to invalidate laws.

The constitutional amendment would be formed for ratification by state conventions, as was the amendment repealing prohibition. It would apply to judges already on the bench as well as those taking office hereafter.

Brush Case Upheld

The Supreme Court upheld today the contention of William Whitlock Brush, former chief engineer of New York City's Bureau of Water Supply, that he did not have to pay a federal tax on his 1931 salary because he was engaged in a government function.

The tribunal, in a 7 to 2 decision delivered by Justice Sutherland, reversed a ruling by the Second Circuit Court of Appeals upholding the levy on the ground Brush's work was not an essential government activity but could be done by a private company Justlers Roberts and Brandels dissent.

New York state told the supreme court that many state activities might be subject to federal taxation if the lower court decision were upheld. Brush contended it would seem to lead, correlative, to a wide extension of the powers of the state to tax federal agencies, including the Tennessee Valley authority.

8 Cases Refused

The supreme court stirred speculation among administration officials today by refusing to review eight new cases challenging constitutionality of the Wagner Labor Relations Act, which the government won in lower courts.

Simultaneously the tribunal postponed until at least March 29, a final decision on validity of the Wagner labor and railway labor laws as presented in five cases already argued.

You Begin Paralytic"

The Rev. Father Benjamin C. Roth, chaplain of the local Council, was the second speaker, taking as his topic the "indoor sport or mild malady to which all fall prey at some time—You Begin Paralytic."

This indoor sport as described by Father Roth, was cited as a "lamentable inertia, a polite way of passing the buck, or the same idea as letting George do it."

The duty of every man was stated to be the taking care of his body and soul, and not leaving it up to other agencies to do that for him. There is an urgent call to assume the initiative. The danger of Communism could in turn be gained through study such as that offered by the Study Club conducted by the local council. But nothing could be gained by each member leaving it up to his neighbor to attend that club, taking the attitude of "You Regata."

Father Roth told of St. Patrick who had the zeal "which is initiative at white heat" to transform a pagan nation such as Ireland, into a Christian land and the Legion of Decency, formed to cleanse the motion picture industry; both a picture of concerted action which belies the common parlance of "You Regata."

Catholic Action.

Attend Communion

Breakfast, Sunday

Approximately 200 members of Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, and their friends assembled in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel on Sunday morning to participate in the annual Communion Breakfast, presided over by William A. Kelly, advocate of the local council.

The guest speaker of the occasion was to have been the Hon. William F. Bleakley, gubernatorial candidate for governor of New York last year, but a telegram received from Mr. Bleakley by Grand Knight Andrew T. Gilday, stated that the speaker was confined to his home with illness and his doctor had ordered him to remain there.

The first point that Mr. Cashin brought up in his topic of Catholic Action, was that "Catholics should live and lead a Catholic life." He stated that regular attendance at church was essential but there was something more important: that all Catholics should so conduct their lives that they would always be considerate of the feelings of others.

"Don't try to trim the other fellow. Be charitable in your dealings with mankind. Don't practice backbiting but deal with others as you would have them deal with you.

Criticism is all right but be above board with it—tell it to a person's face and not behind his back. This is what my conception of Catholic Action is."

Another duty of every Catholic is to take an active interest in civic affairs, as in local government, state government and federal control.

The people get the type of government they want by the interest they take in it, and Mr. Cashin pointed out that participation in civic interests was performing the duty of a Catholic gentleman and citizen.

Communism is a very real danger according to Mr. Cashin, and it is

Causes of Erosion
Erosion is the process by which the surface of the land is attacked, eaten into and sculptured into valleys, hills and cliffs. The agencies of erosion are the rivers, which cut out canyons and gorges; the rain, which washes away the finer particles from the surface; the sun, which by heating the rocks loosens and detaches their particles; the frost, which expands the water in the crevices of the rocks and wedges them open; the sea, which constantly is undermining its cliffs; glaciers and many burrowing animals.

Knights of the Garter an Order of Chivalry

"Hon sois qui mal y pense" is the motto (in French) of the Knights of the Garter, an order of chivalry instituted by Edward III in 1349. Its meaning is: "Evil be to him who evil thinks." It is the most ancient and important of British orders of knighthood. The story of its origin in the restoration of her garter to the Countess of Salisbury by the king, after it had dropped to the ground, is questioned and depends on popular tradition only. Edward had projected the revival of King Arthur's Knights of the Round Table and he invited "foreigners and subjects of quality and courage" to a tournament in 1344, a table being erected at Windsor Castle, 200 feet in diameter, at which the knights were to be entertained. This festival excited the jealousy of Philip of France, who forbade his subjects to attend and proclaimed one to be held by himself in Paris.

When Edward instituted the Order of the Garter, states a writer in the Detroit News, it is thought that this motto may have referred to the possible misrepresentation of it by King Philip. The garter may have been selected as its badge from the fact that Edward had given his own garter for the signal of a successful battle (probably the battle of Crecy). The original number of members was 25; later it was increased to 36, including the king.

Solemn Compact Signed on Board the Mayflower

The compact signed on board the Mayflower follows:

"In ye name of God, Amen. We whose names are underwritten, the loyal subjects of our dread sovereign Lord, King James, by ye grace of God, of Great Britaine, France and Ireland, King, defender of ye faith etc., having undertaken, for ye glorie of God, and advancemente of ye Christian faith, and honour of our king & countrie, a voyage to plant ye first colonie in ye Northerne part of Virginia, doe by these presents solemnly & mutually in ye presence of God, and one of another, covenant & Combine our selves together into a civil body politic, for our better ordering and preservation and furtherance of ye ends aforesaid; and by vertue hereof to enacte, constitute, and frame such just & equal laws, ordinances, acts, constitutions & offices, from time to time, as shall be thought most meete & convenient for ye generall good of ye Colonie, unto which we promise all due submission and obedience. In witness whereof we have hereunder subscribed our names at Cap Codd ye 11 of November, in ye year of ye raigne of our souveraine lord, King James, of England, France & Ireland ye eighteenth, and of Scotland ye fifte fourth Ano: Dom: 1620."

The funeral of David H. Simpson, who died on Friday last following a long illness, was held from the late home, 38 Henry street, this morning at 9 o'clock, thence to St. Joseph's Church where at 9:30 a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Edmund Burke. St. Joseph's children's choir sang the responses during the Mass. At the offertory Thomas Dolan sang "O Salutaris," and at the conclusion of the Mass rendered "Ave Maria." There were a number of beautiful floral tributes from a host of sorrowing relatives and friends, together with spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards, which were placed near the casket. The casket bearers were James Brown, Rudolph Kraus, Daniel Cassidy and Frederick Travis. Interment in the family plot in Rhinebeck Cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ella Zoller were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the late residence, 587 Abel street, and were large attended by her relatives and friends who filled the home to overflowing. The Rev. Russell S. Gaenzle, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, assisted by the Rev. Paul M. Young, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, conducted the services, which though simple were most consoling to the members of the family. A very large number of beautiful floral pieces made a lovely display as they were banked about the casket in the home. The casket bearers were William Healey, John McManus, Edward Ryan, George Schick, John Stewart and Arthur Van Demark. An exceptionally large funeral cortège accompanied the body to Montrepose Cemetery, where burial was made in the family plot. The Rev. Mr. Gaenzle officiated at the committal services at the grave.

Mrs. Mabel Scott Brooks, wife of George G. Brooks of 318 Albany avenue, died at the Kingston Hospital about seven o'clock Saturday evening. Mrs. Brooks underwent an emergency operation at the hospital Thursday morning and in her weakened condition was unable to rally. Funeral services, which will be held at the home Thursday at 2 p.m., will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Roselli H. Brooks, rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, Fifth Avenue, New York City. Interment and committal service will be held in Poughkeepsie Rural Cemetery at three o'clock the same afternoon. Mrs. Brooks was born in Brooklyn and the daughter of John E. Scott and Edna Buckhout Scott. She was 53 years of age. She came to Poughkeepsie with her mother as a girl of 16 and in 1902 was united in marriage to George G. Brooks. They resided in Kingston in May, 1920, when Mr. Brooks took over the management of the Parker, McElroy &

Co. brokerage office in this city. Besides her husband she is survived by one son, Lowell Brooks of Hurley, who is associated with his father in the brokerage business, one daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Trimm of Harrison, and three grandchildren. Mrs. Brooks was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Poughkeepsie. She was devoted to her home and family, who will have sincere sympathy in their sudden bereavement.

Mrs. Sarah L. Fitzgerald, wife of the late Augustus Fitzgerald, died at her home, 47 Van Buren street, last Thursday. Friday evening the Daughters of Elks held their memorial service, and Saturday night the Daughters of Salome and the Fishermen of Galilee, Brown Tabernacle No. 9, held their respective rituals. Bearers were Charles Clark, Thomas Van derZee, Sylvester Van derZee, John Morton, Egbert Johnson, and Charles Walker. Funeral service was held in the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church Sunday afternoon with the Rev. H. H. Kirton and the Rev. Mr. Gadson officiating. Henry S. Van derZee sang, "Asleep in Jesus," a favorite hymn of the deceased. Interment was in Mt. Zion cemetery.

Much Heat Required to Raise Water Temperature

Water is the great heat reservoir of the earth. It takes more heat to raise the temperature of water by a given amount than is required for almost any other substance. In addition, it takes about 80 calories to melt a gram of ice and about 600 to evaporate an equal amount of water. The same quantities of heat are released when the reverse changes, the freezing of water and the condensation of water vapor, take place, according to Dr. Thomas M. Beck in the Chicago Tribune.

Water spontaneously evaporates, absorbing the necessary heat from its surroundings, until its vapor has reached a certain pressure above which it cannot go. When the water vapor has reached this pressure in air, evaporation stops and the air is said to be saturated. The vapor pressure of water is proportional to the amount of water held by saturated air and increases strongly with rising temperature. Thus the pressure of water vapor in saturated air is about .2 inch at 32 degrees and increases to 1.2 inches at 85 degrees.

Our atmosphere is very rarely saturated, however. Normally it holds about 70 per cent of the amount theoretically possible. This fraction of saturation is known as the degree of humidity. When it is high very little evaporation takes place, and when it is low the reverse is true.

TESTIMONIAL

JESSIE COWLEY WOLFERSTIEG—The singing of the Boys' Choir of The Cathedral of All Saints, Albany, is most inspirational. Their performance is a work of art in sound that will not soon be forgotten. Kingston people are fortunate in having an opportunity to hear rare music.

HELEN MAY TURNER—The diction of this choir is fine, its tonal quality superb. Its renditions are done with precision, richness in tone and deep feeling.

(Mrs. Wolferstieg and Miss Turner were delegates in the meeting in Albany on March 8 of The Federation of Music Clubs of New York State, where they gave a performance.)

DR. ELMER TIDMARSH of Albany—"I know this choir very well and congratulate The Men's Club of The Reformed Church for giving this community the opportunity to hear such fine music. No music lover should miss it."

YOUTH IN STEEL

Age may be desirable for the judiciary, but not for industry. At least, not for the steel industry. An Associated Press survey of big steel men shows nearly all the big fellows young or middle-aged.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the U. S. Steel board, credited with the recent friendly labor settlement, is said to have been engaged in a program of "rejuvenation" for many years, especially since he assumed his present position in 1933. He picked Edward R. Stettinius as chief assistant at the age of 33. In the last year or two there have been added to the board six "progressives" averaging about 44 years of age. No president of a subsidiary manufacturing unit who was in office in 1927 now remains. Nearly all the important officials are under 50.

This is really returning to the policy of our first great steelmaster, Andrew Carnegie. He was always looking for young men. He picked Charles M. Schwab, a stake-driver, as chief engineer for the Carnegie steel plant at the age of 19, and made him superintendent of the Homestead Steel Works at 25, and Schwab was still only 39 when he became first president of the United States Steel Corporation. Apparently there is still chance for young fellows.

COURT CHRONICLE

To the rapidly growing literature of the Supreme Court controversy may be added the following jingle, recently printed in the New York Times and originating apparently in the Raleigh News and Observer. It seems to be non-partisan in character and serves as a simple and easy device to keep track of the various court changes from the beginning.

1789—Congress decided at first to fix

The number of justices at six.

1801—Congress planned on a change to five.

But the six remained very much alive.

1807—Six high judges, supreme as heaven—

And Jefferson added number seven.

1837—Seven high judges, all in a line—

Two more added, and that made nine.

1863—Nine high judges were sitting when

Lincoln made them an even ten.

1866—Ten high judges, very sedate;

When Congress got through there were only eight.

1868—Eight high judges who wouldn't resign;

Grant brought the figure back to nine.

1907—Would justice feel like a packed sardine

If the number was raised to say fifteen?

DIME CHAINS

How long has it been since we were all going to grow rich by mailing each other a dime? Two or three years. Well, we seem to have turned another corner and finished another cycle, and people are mailing dimes again.

This curious variety of chain letter has broken out anew in Denver. Four chains were discovered there the first week of March, and there may be dozens of them this week. And from that famous center of wildcat finance the delusion will probably be spreading over the country again. Really, though, isn't it a poker game for recovery days like these? We should think the players now would scorn to lose anything less than a dollar bill.

CONFUSED CLIPPER ROUTE

At last the trans-Pacific Clipper planes are going to make the complete trip originally planned. Beginning April 1, they will carry air mail and passengers to Hongkong, instead of stopping at Manila, as they had had to do because Great Britain at first refused to grant landing privileges in the Chinese port. The Hongkong terminus means direct connection with India and other Asiatic routes. The post office says schedule for regular Asiatic air mail lists Manila, Guam, the Philippines, Islands, Macao, Hongkong, China, Japan, Indo China, Malaya (Straits Settlement), Siam, India, Dutch East Indies, Australia and New Zealand. If the Zeppelins resume regular Atlantic crossings this summer the commercial round-the-world route will be complete, with a variety of choices for the traveler.

Only last summer three newspaper reporters went around the world in less than three weeks using only commercial lines, but special arrangements had to be made by one of them for the air journey between China and the Philippines, while the other two used an ocean liner. The whole thing can now be done by airplanes or by combinations of air, sea and rail transport. It is a thrilling prospect.

NET AROUND LONDON

Some of the British defense ideas sound as if they had been borrowed from fantastic fiction. Consider the net which is to be thrown around London to keep out hostile airplanes. The plan calls for fleets of balloons which would go into the air at the first alarm of a raid. From the balloons a network of steel cables will be dropped, caging in the city.

It isn't said whether the net will reach from the stratosphere to the roofs of London buildings. If the net is less extensive, how are the enemy planes to be kept from flying above it into the inner circle? What, also, is to prevent the enemy shooting the balloons to pieces?

That Body of Yours

DON'T WAIT FOR INFECTION.

When pain occurs in joints or muscles the first thought of the physician is to look for infected teeth or tonsils; if no trouble is present then the sinuses, gall bladder and large intestine are investigated.

However, what should be remembered is that by the time pain occurs in a joint the infection has been in the system for months, perhaps for years. And just as it has taken months or years for the poison from the infection to be large or strong enough to cause pain, swelling, or other conditions, so will it take months and perhaps years to get rid of the poisons from the blood and tissues.

Once the cause of the infection is found and removed, of course no more poisons will accumulate, but considerable damage may already have taken place, and the poisons still present after the infection is removed, can still cause symptoms. This is why many physicians advise exercise, hot baths, electricity, massage, and other physical and mechanical methods of treatment to increase the circulation of the blood and get rid of the accumulated poisons in a shorter period of time than it would normally take.

As considerable of the poison remains in the lower bowel, the bowel is usually kept active by laxatives if exercise cannot be taken.

But what we seem to forget is that during the time that the poisons from infection are accumulating to the point where they cause pain, the body forces are steadily fighting these poisons; fighting for months and years before the poisons win battles to the point where they are able to cause pain.

If then, while your body forces, your resistance to infections and their poisons, are busy fighting off these infections and poisons, you are attacked by some other ailment—common cold, flu, pneumonia, then your fighting forces have to fight two armies instead of one.

Dr. W. H. Hughes in British Journal of Experimental Pathology, London, says, after careful experimental research work, that "the blood of patients with active infection (teeth, tonsils, gall bladder, sinuses) shows a steady decrease in its ability to fight off harmful organisms."

That is, if your body is already fighting an infection, your blood loses some of its fighting power, and the new or other ailment that attacks you has that much more chance of causing symptoms.

The thought then is not to wait for pain or aches in joints or muscles to tell you that infection is present, but to prevent infection by getting an examination by your physician at least once a year, and by your dentist twice each year.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: After five years of work and play in New York, Eve Mannherfeld goes back to her 200-year-old farmhouse and orchard in Connecticut. George, practical George Cleveland, a young fruit experimenter who lives nearby, and Uncle Henry, an old family friend, help her clean and move the antiques from the attic. Eve plans to rent or sell, marry up, slim Denny and return to New York apartment life. But the tendency to stay in her beloved old home is strong. Denny comes for the weekend and Eve's old crowd drives out Sunday.

Chapter 16Two Unwanted Kisses

VE caught and kissed them indiscriminately. Marylin in a 6-and-10 cent store hat and the expensive moleskin coat, just a little worn at the cuffs, which had cost some friend a lot of money before it was passed on to Marylin. Peter, long and lank and easy-moving, in his smart tweeds, with his warm immediate friendliness to all the world. Little cross Dillard Betz, looking incongruous in his derby and glasses against the country background, his expression that of someone who had just made a wisecrack and not been listened to. The man like a beast of the eighties, the Jack person Eve had first met with George Cleveland. She actually kissed him too in her excitement; and then wished she hadn't because he returned the kiss too warmly. She pulled herself away angrily, and went on crying welcome to her guests.

"You're just in time for brunch," she called gaily to them, beckoning them on up the drive.

"Darling, we made up our minds you shouldn't be homesick this first Sunday!" It was Marylin, a whirlwind of affection. There were all dashing for the house. Little Judge cast one look about him, and then scampered around the corner of the house like a kitten let out of a basket, thin and neat and scurrying in the hand-some overcoat made for some larger boy.

"We're seven-year locusta, darling," said Marylin. "Have you got coffee?" Mitzi will send Jean back to the hot-dog stand for everything else, but I said, "I know my darling Eve has lots of coffee!"

She paused at the open door and glanced in. "Oh, this is perfectly wonderful!" she said, taking in the stars and the fanlight at one admiring glance. "I love it. I'd like to live here forever, wouldn't you, Peter, darling?"

"You bet I would!" Peter put a brotherly hand on Eve's shoulder. "I love it too. But you know how Marylin and I are, Eve; we always say we get as much happiness out of other people's lovely possessions as they do; we may be failures but we're happy failures. And we have each other." Peter and Marylin squeezed each other's hands behind Eve's back, which they both encircled.

Mitzi Eyes The Architecture

MITZI had thrown her rough beautiful fur-collared motoring coat to the nearest man and freshened her face carefully in the old eagle-topped mirror Uncle Henry had hung in the hall the last thing. She was visibly stiffening a little as the excellence of the architecture dawned upon her. Mitzi was one of those people who will be pleasant and praise you to the skies only so long as you have nothing that can come into competition with them or their possessions. The thought flashed through Eve's mind, not for the first time, but she pushed it down. She must be getting really jealous of Mitzi in a pre-war way worthy of Mitzi herself. Any way, having the gang here—bleeding their hearts!—was fine enough, Mitzi or no Mitzi looking for something to damn with faint praise. Eve felt her old role as the center of the group around her again.

"Ellen and Denny are here too," she said joyfully. "And Ellen's making waffles! Come in, you angels!"

"Quite a charming place, if I may say so," said Mitzi. "I only came to bring these dear people. I'm visiting my friends the Cleveland's; they have a wonderful estate just above you... Jean, go to the Cleveland estate and explain to Mrs. Cleveland that I'll be there after luncheon. No, put the basket of bottles on the porch first.... Dill, darling, don't look so blue. I'm sure you'll like the country when you get used to it.... Jack, stop staring at me like that, you fascinating devil, and bring the waffles in—"

Denny clattered down, tall and boyishly excited in his gray trousers and blue plaid over his fair hair flying. "Dad, I smell coffee—Hey, this is grand! All we need is Tmesis Square and the Library down here. I'll show 'em round, Eve!"

Eve saw Mitzi turn from her coquettish hold on Jack's lapels, and rush at Denny with a scream: "Denny, you wretched man! Mitzi spent the afternoon yesterday looking for you! In spite of remembering Denny's line about Mitzi's 'acting as if a man was a gymnastic bar,' the sight of Mitzi's two small red-nailed hands affectionately clutching Denny's shoulders, and her plump black-eyed face tipped up close to his as she pulled his head down and bestowed a possessive kiss. She managed to call to the others, "We'll have food on the table by the time you put your wraps upstairs," and dive through the dining-room door with a wave of the hand. She heard a step behind her; she turned with a relieved smile—Denny, bless his heart—getting away—

Killian Slaps A Slap

BUT it wasn't Denny, it was Jack Kilian; apparently still slumming in Bohemia, for he said, "Every time I see you I think you're enter," and proceeded to kiss her again, not in any easy comradely way, or even

Dillard Beats Mitzi

Mitzi's plump black-eyed face tipped up close to Denny's as she pulled his head down for a kiss.

With Mitzi's air of complacent ownership, but with deliberate passion.

If Denny had not opened the door just then, Eve would have given Kilian an old-fashioned slap. As it was she remained quite quiet for Denny to see that saucy for the goose was saucy for the gander. Kilian, naturally, released her in some embarrassment. There was no time for anybody to do anything more, before the rest were streaming hungrily into the dining room. Peter brought plates, Ellen came in with a pile of waffles and an apronful of kitchen silver, having intelligently dug it out of the drawer where Uncle Henry had put it some days back.

"Isn't this grand?" Marylin said, as they all sat down to waffles and coffee on the bare table. "We ought to move this place into Central park."

"Or establish an airplane service," said Denny, buttering a waffle.

They ate and talked and laughed in the old way. Quantities, it seemed, had happened in the week Eve had been in exile. She piled their plates with more food and laughed and talked excitedly with them, basking in their company.

Social Security Information Is In Great Demand

States that the magnitude of public demand for information on the old-age benefit provision of the social security program could best be gauged by facts. Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, regional director, today released figures showing the amount of information which has been supplied by the regional office of the social security board to millions of employers and employees in New York state since November 16, 1936, when this provision of the act was first launched.

Four months ago, postmen throughout New York city started to distribute SS-4 forms to employers, as the first step in inaugurating the old-age benefit feature of the social security program. Since that date over 130,000 requests for information from interested parties have been answered through the New York office. Based on an average of 400 letters a day, there have been approximately 48,000 inquiries by letter which have been answered. There have been about 50,000 telephone inquiries. At times there were over a thousand calls a day. In addition to this, there were about 30,000 personal visits to the regional office.

In order to bring the facts of old-age benefits before such groups as civic organizations, social workers, veterans, religious and educational organizations, the information service of the social security board in New York responded to over 500 requests for speakers. With representatives of the board speaking before an average attendance of 150 persons a meeting, over 75,000 persons have been educated through this medium.

Approximately 200 broadcasts on social security programs were made over metropolitan stations alone. Brief announcements were made by broadcasters at various intervals. Commentators on all stations were most cooperative at all times and whenever pertinent information had to be brought before the public quickly, the radio stations responded most helpfully.

Many thousands of posters were distributed by the regional office for display in public offices, post offices, at meetings, on street, railroad, subway cars and busses.

About two million copies of informational literature, explaining all phases of the social security act, were sent out from the regional office.

Four short moving picture films, describing social security in progressive steps, were prepared and have been shown in more than 700 theaters throughout New York state, and at many other public places where visual displays of this type were requested.

Over 250 articles on social security, ranging from 1,000 to 5,000 words were submitted and published in various trade publications, club periodicals, house organs and labor magazines.

When this program first started, the regional office supplied all of the information to New York state. Since that date, social security offices have been opened in Albany, Buffalo, Schenectady, Rochester, Syracuse, Binghamton, Brooklyn and Kingston.

"Of course, this tremendous task could not have been accomplished efficiently without the cooperation of the post office department and the bureau of internal revenue," declared Mrs. Rosenberg. "These departments, through their close cooperation, helped to minimize the many incidental problems of supplying information to employers and employees, and in educating them to their rights, functions and duties under the social security act."

Coed With Knee Action Coasts Through Exams

NEWSY KNEE

Columbus, O. (CP)—Knee action has helped many a coed through a tough examination, according to Ohio State university students. When the instructors hands out the questions with orders to lay aside all books and notes, she just pulls her skirt above the knee. There, perfectly readable beneath her large-meshed hose, are her notes.

Or she may kick off a shoe and use an acrobatic toe to pull a book from under her chair and turn to the proper page.

The only trouble is, many professors have kept abreast of progress.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Crime on Wave.

New York—Magistrate Thomas A. Eurelio, in Harlem, was puzzled. Not a prisoner came before the bench. Everything was as peaceful as the "Green Pastures" of Marie Connally's tale. He had a clerk poll the police stations of the district. Still no prisoners.

It was the first time in six years he had not had a long list of culprits before him.

Eats His Spinach.

Byers, Kas.—Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Warren were out riding with their four-year-old son, Darrel Dean. While traveling at a 60-mile an hour clip, Darrel fell out of the automobile.

Jamming on the brakes, the Warrens had horrible visions as they jumped out of the car. To their amazement, Darrel Dean came trudging up to them.

"Aren't you hurt," gasped the parents.

"No," replied Darrel Dean. "I'm tough."

Progress.

Pasadena, Calif.—The Rev. Charles H. Sundstrom drove 10 miles by horse and buggy 39 years ago to perform his first marriage ceremony. Without leaving his house, he performed his latest—with the bride and groom 2,500 miles away.

Distinctly over wireless telephone from Honolulu came the "I do" response of his son, H. P. Sundstrom, and Miss Frances Terkes. The minister's words were repeated in Honolulu by a minister there to conform with a territorial law.

Bike Rider.

Kenosha, Wis.—Noble C. Tarbell, 60 years old, says he had pedaled a bicycle 127,000 miles since 1892, when he started to keep a record.

An employee of the Nash Motors plant here, Tarbell does all his riding in his spare time. Still going strong, he estimates his average has been 1,000 miles a year since 1932.

Frequently he rides 10 miles before going to work.

"It's the most healthful exercise and the most economical riding," he said.

Butter, the one and only food product defined by law in the United States, must contain "not less than eighty per cent by weight of milk fat."

Events Around The Empire State

Elmira, N. Y., March 15 (CP)—Boys of nearby Southport Corncers haven't gone in for nutbread yet but they can turn out a batch of cookies and they can sew as well as they can cook.

They are members of the only boys' 4-H Club in this section which goes in for such feminine arts.

The club's leader, Mrs. Ralph Palmer, says the boys are easier than girls to teach "because they don't giggle so much. They turn out some first class morsels."

Glens Falls, N. Y., March 15 (CP)—Warren county officials prepared to seek extradition papers from Governor Clyde Hoey of North Carolina today for a former Glens Falls business man wanted here in connection with a $55,000 boathouse fire on Lake George.

A hearing was scheduled before the governor in Raleigh on the return of Alfred Mallard, arrested in Greensboro, N. C., at the request of New York state police.

Meanwhile Jacob Lebowitz, 29, also of Glens Falls, was freed on $6,000 bail to await the action of the May grand jury on arson charges growing out of the January 7 fire that destroyed the building owned by the Hall Boathouse Corporation. Lebowitz had been in the Lake George jail since March 4 when he waived examination and was held for the grand jury.

Gas, Gas All the Time, Can't Eat or Sleep

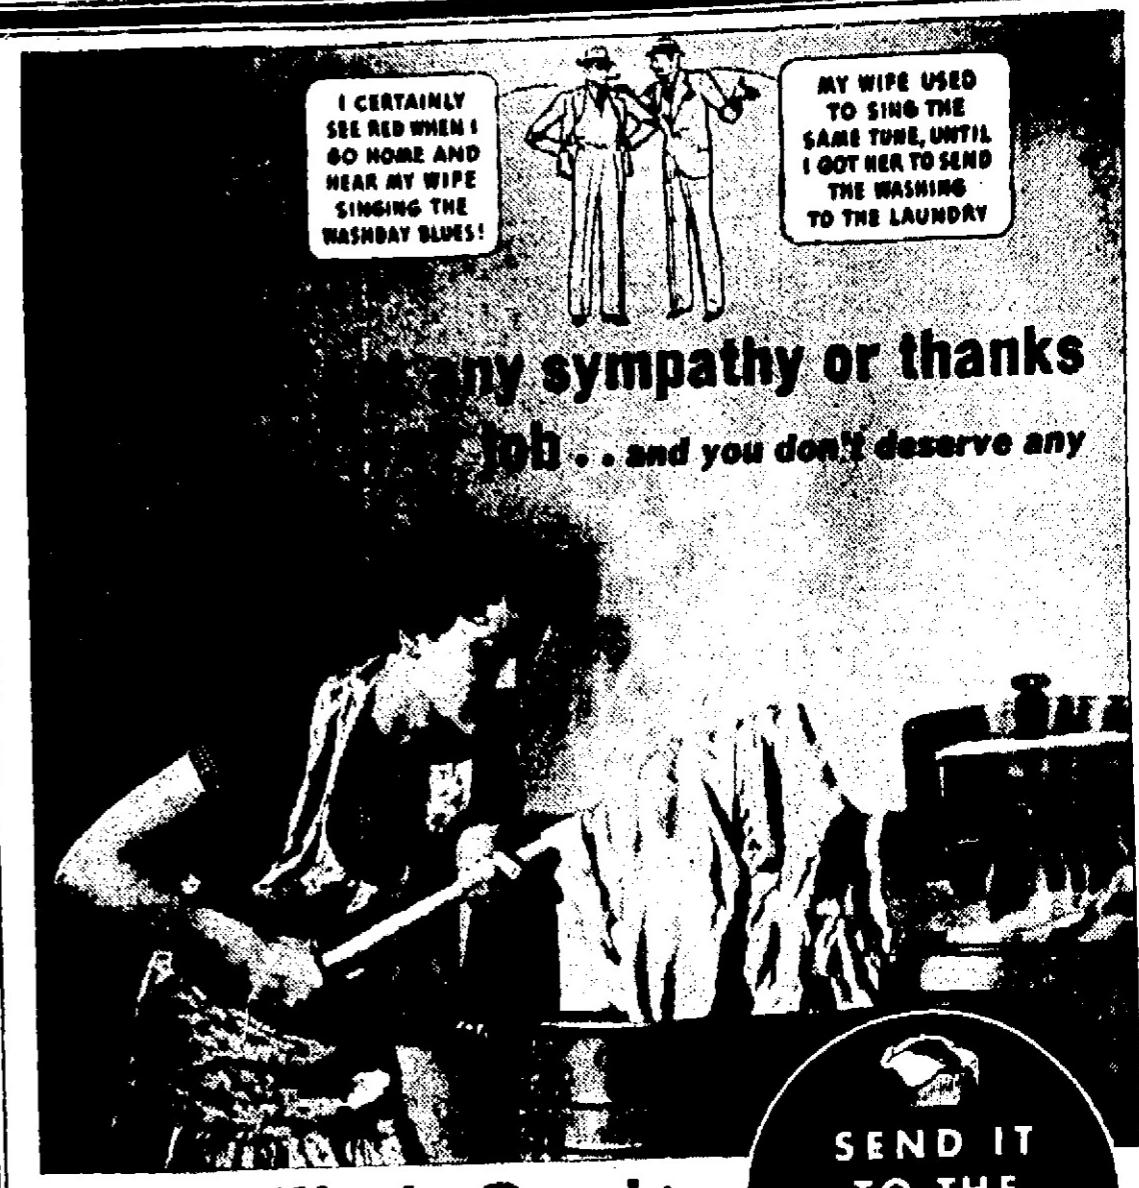

"The gas in my stomach was as bad I could never eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adierka. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."

—Mrs. Jas. Filler.

Adierka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierka brings out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headache for years.

Dr. H. L. Shantz, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal complaints, Adierka relieves rheumatism, gouty, rheumatic and neuralgic conditions. Give Adierka to your bowels, a REAL cleansing with Adierka and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and constipation."

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Jane Withers would not trade places with any other little girl in the world but she has her troubles just the same.

One of them came to light during a conversation with Jane's mother, Mrs. Ruth Withers. Mention had been made that the new Withers home was a pretty elaborate affair.

It is a beautifully constructed and furnished Spanish ranch style house, on three acres of expensive ground. The swimming pool and tennis court aren't in yet but they're on their way.

Has Her Troubles

Mrs. Withers agreed that it all sounded "elaborate," but "Did you ever stop to think," she said, "that Jane can't go down to the public playgrounds and play with the other youngsters any more? She used to be able to do that but now, when she tries it, she's kept so busy signing autographs that she has no time to play ball or swing."

"Of course Jane's crazy about children and she wouldn't disappoint anyone who asked for an autograph but it doesn't leave much time for recreation. Please understand that Jane and I both appreciate her popularity, and everybody everywhere has always been extremely kind, but after all Jane won't be 11 until April and little girls her age, no matter how strong, can stand only so much."

"So Mr. Withers and I realize that whatever fun Jane is going to be able to enjoy during the next few years will necessarily be at home, and we're going to do all we can to give her the same kind of good time other children are given. She can have all the friends at home she wants, and most of the time it looks like a convention of boys and girls. The only rule is that there must not be too much discussion of motion pictures."

Steady Work
 Jane finds movie-making a pretty steady job. She gets up at 6:30 or 7 each morning, reads the comics, has breakfast, checks on her chickens, dogs, cats, birds, turtles, lambs and other livestock and is at the studio at 8:45. Her new picture, "Angel's Holiday," requires her for most of the scenes, and the school board requires her to study four hours before 4 o'clock each school day. That leaves four hours between 9 and 6 for acting, with one hour for lunch.

The Withers car pulls away from the studio promptly at 6 p. m. Dinner is at 6:30 and it's lights out for Jane at 8. Saturday nights she celebrates nearly always in the same way—going to the movies.

Such items as calls at the dentist, posing for dress, hat and other "tie-up" pictures, radio talks and other activities are sandwiched in between productions and tours.

MENUS OF THE DAY

A 'Green' Luncheon (Suggestions To Use On St. Patrick's Day)
Luncheon Serving Eight
 Chilled Fruit Juices
 Shamrock Cookies Buttered Peas
 Cream Sauce
 Shamrock Biscuits
 Apricot Conserves
 "Lucky" Salad Toasted Wafers
 St. Patrick's Dessert Coffee
 Candied Orange Peel Green Mints

Chilled Fruit Juices
 1 cup chilled pineapple juice 1 cup chilled
 1 cup chilled orange juice pear juice
 1 cup chilled grapefruit juice Green fruit
 coloring

Delicately color the fruit juices. Chill or partially freeze them and serve in small glasses arranged on green leaves or paper doilies.

Shamrock Cutlets

(Deep Fried)
 4 tablespoons butter 2 tablespoons minced colery
 2 tablespoons flour 2 tablespoons mixed green
 2 cups milk peppers (optional)
 2 eggs 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon paprika
 Melt the butter. Add the milk. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until a very thick sauce forms. Cook 2 minutes. Add rest of the ingredients. Cook one minute. Cool. Take tablespoons of the mixture and roll in the crumbs, then in the egg and again in the crumbs. Shape shamrock fashion. Chill until serving time. Fry in deep hot fat until the shamrocks are well browned. (About 5 minutes.)

Egg And Crumbs

1 egg 1/4 cup crumbs
 2 tablespoons water
 Mix the egg and water and use to cover the cutlets.

A delicious maple sauce to serve with waffles may be made by cooking half a pound of maple sugar with one cup of milk and half a cup of cream and boiling it for two minutes. Serve warm.

The "China Apple"

Originally called the "China apple," oranges came from the Orient. Spanish explorers took them to South America and missionaries carried them to California and Florida. It is claimed that the United States produces more oranges than any other country. An orange tree is about 30 feet high and sometimes lives and bears for centuries. Although the usual age is about 8 years, the wood is highly esteemed by cabinet makers. It takes a high polish. Besides being used as food, oranges are manufactured from orange peels. In southern Italy, orange blossoms are sold exclusively for making perfume.

BUDGETING YOUR WEDDING

Your wedding! What a beautiful memory it will be for you—if you solve the wedding etiquette and budget problems.

The larger part of the expenses fail to the bride and her family. They provide the bridal costume and trousseau. They send the engraved invitations, or announcements, or both.

They see to the music, decorations, all incidental service connected with the ceremony whether it's at home, at church or in a hotel ballroom. They see the wedding breakfast or reception.

The bride gives each of her attendants a gift. Usually she provides their bouquets—though sometimes the groom does this with her help in selecting flowers to harmonize with their dresses.

The groom's obligations: The wedding ring, of course. The bride's bouquet; corsages for her mother and him. The marriage license and minister's fee. Gifts and buttonholes for his best man and ushers.

Usually, too, the groom gives the bride a piece of jewelry to wear with her wedding gown.

PAGANINI GEM LOST SINCE 1831 FOUND

Unpublished Manuscript Is Discovered by Cobbler.

Parma, Italy.—A humble shoemaker of this town, Anacleto Fochi, is responsible for the discovery of the autographed manuscript of an unpublished concert composition by Niccolò Paganini, one of the greatest violinists of all ages.

The existence of this piece was known from Paganini's correspondence, but all trace of it had been lost after the wizard played it at the Paris opera on the evening of March 25, 1831, on the occasion of a memorable concert. According to his biographers, Paganini set to music only nine concerts, of which three never were published. The one just discovered here, which the author called "Fourth Concert" in D Minor," was one of these three.

Paganini's compositions were among the most difficult to be inventoried. He disliked greatly to publish them for fear that the publication might cause the curiosity or interest in them to be diminished.

Shoemakers Trade Books.

Parma's shoemaker are, by tradition, also small traders in old or second hand books. Because of this trade, Fochi was asked by an elderly woman to buy from her two large packages of musical compositions, printed and in manuscript, which she had received from descendants of Paganini.

The shoemaker gave the woman only 20 lire, or a little more than a dollar, for the two bundles. One day going through the papers, Fochi discovered a declaration dated 1835 and signed by Achille Paganini, a son of the virtuoso. The declaration concerned certain researches by Prof. Romeo Franzosi, until a few years ago a violin teacher in the local music conservatory, by which Franzosi had been entrusted with the revision of Paganini's writings.

The conservatory has had Arturo Toscanini among its more illustrious students.

Property of the State.

Fochi took the declaration and the concert manuscript to Franzosi, who recognized both papers as writings of Paganini and his son. Due to the fact, however, that under a government decision Paganini's manuscripts were state property and hence not to be sold in Italy or abroad except to the Italian state, Franzosi advised Fochi to take the composition to the management of the city conservatory.

111,000 KILLED IN ACCIDENTS IN 1936

An All-Time High Toll Reported by Safety Council.

Chicago—Accidents, sucked along in the wake of a nation rising from the depths of depression, killed 111,000 persons in 1936 and cost Americans about $3,750,000,000, reports the National Safety Council. Both figures are all-time high totals.

Tornadoes, floods, excessive heat, increased employment and a sharp jump in motor vehicle travel were indicated for the increase which wiped out the previous record of 101,139 set in 1934.

In addition to deaths, the council said, about 400,000 were permanently disabled by accidents last year and 10,300,000 temporarily disabled. The country's bill for recklessly and carelessly "stumbling its toe" was broken down into $2,630,000,000 in wage loss and medical expense, $300,000,000 for property damage resulting from motor vehicle accidents and $290,000,000 for fire loss.

While accident totals increased in every phase of human activity the council pointed out that the increased totals were accompanied by even larger jumps in "exposure" to accidents, "leaving solid ground for belief that when the country once more is definitely on the high road of prosperity with employment and automobile travel at fairly constant levels, the accident totals will shrink rapidly in the face of intelligent safety work."

Rise in all Fields.

Home accidents: Deaths in 1936 were 24 per cent more than in 1935—39,000 against 31,500. For the first time in eight years there were more home accident fatalities than motor vehicle deaths.

Occupational accidents: Deaths up 9 per cent to 18,000 from 16,500 in 1935. The council commented that the increase was smaller than in general employment which exposed additional millions to the hazards of machinery, tools and the other implements of gainful employment in factory, on farms, in offices and elsewhere.

Miscellaneous public accidents (not involving motor vehicles): Deaths up 6 per cent from 18,000 in 1935 to 19,000. These accidents were caused by such things as firearms, drownings, poisonings, asphyxiation and accidents involving media of transportation other than motor vehicle where the injured or killed was not an employee of the transportation company.

Motor vehicle accidents: Deaths up 4 per cent to 38,500 from 37,000 in 1935. However, "exposure" to traffic accidents was tremendously greater in 1936. Registration figures show 28,270,000 vehicles traveled the streets and highways last year, more than in any previous year. And they traveled 225,000,000,000 miles, 22,000,000 more than in 1935.

Heat prostration caused by excessive heat last July and August contributed 3,500 to the total of 39,000 home accident deaths. Permanent disability from home accidents jumped from 140,000 in 1935 to 170,000.

Industrial Trend.

Occupational accidents added 70,000 permanent disability cases to their death total and 1,460,000 temporary disability cases, compared to respective totals for 1935 of 63,000 and 1,340,000. These injuries resulted in a wage loss of $520,000,000 and medical expense billed at $45,000,000. In addition, the overhead cost of providing liability and workers' compensation insurance amounted to about $105,000,000. The three items total was $50,000,000 larger than in 1935. However, occupational accident deaths in 1936 were half as numerous as in 1935, when organized safety work began and reductions in accident frequency and severity rates since 1913 had saved about 265,000 lives and effected a further saving of $3,700,000,000 to employers, workers, their dependents and the general public.

The increase in deaths from miscellaneous public accidents (firearms, poisonings, asphyxiations, drownings, and catastrophic weather conditions) was reported to have been caused "primarily by fatalities occurring in tornadoes last April in the southeastern states, in New England and Ohio river floods and in last summer's excessive heat."

The toads worn by men of ancient Rome were elliptical in shape and made of white wool. They were cleaned with rags clay.

How to Take a Bath
put it off as long as possible.
Set about it under protest.
For with the faucet until the tub ready to overflow.
Whine out a complaint of the tem-

Wait for an extra towel.
Feel of the water again.
Shiver.

Fidget on one foot.
Stroke the surface of the water
with the toes of one foot.
Jump back writhing in utter hor-

Shrieks and yells of the most ap-riding into the scene.

"Now, then," he said very gruff-

very good and she's deaf, too."

A hasty series of shrieks inter-

At The Theatres

REVIEWER

Today

Bill Crosby, Kingston's singing cowboy, who entertains on radio station WGNY, Newburgh, every Tuesday from 12:45 to 1 p.m., will offer the following program tomorrow: "There's an Empty Cot in the Bunkhouse Tonight", "Mexicali Rose", "Nobody's Darlin'", "Atlanta Blue".

The Rosso taxicab driver is one of the most popular members of the WGNY artists' bureau and has three engagements for personal appearances at Middletown State Armory, Newburgh Odd Fellows Hall and Poughkeepsie Odd Fellows Hall.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, March 15.—A Saint Patrick's Day card party will be held on Thursday evening by the Level Club.

A card party was held at Bearsville last Wednesday at the Agape Rebekah Lodge.

Mrs. Frank Merwin returned early this week from a trip to New York.

Mrs. Dysrus Cook and her sister, Miss Mildred Roberts, are spending a few days in New Jersey.

The dance held by the Boy Scouts and 4-H girls last week was a great success. About $15 was added to the treasury of each organization after all expenses were paid. Nearly 200 people enjoyed dancing to the music provided by the Level Club Orchestra and the Wheel Inn Fiddlers. Young and old attended, making a good old-fashioned get-together, heartily appreciated by all present.

The children's entertainment to be held in the library on Friday has been postponed until some time early in April. The date will be announced as soon as decided upon.

Frank Walser has returned from New York and is settling here for the spring.

the advice given them by friends and relatives in order to insure their happiness. "Black Cat" is the associate feature, a murder mystery with Ricardo Cortez and June Travis.

Tomorrow

Broadway: Same.

Kingston: "General Spanky".

What might be termed a children's hour comes to the Kingston Theatre with Spanky McFarland, star of the "Our Gang" series, starred in a full length film under the direction of Fred Newmeyer. It tells of a young couple who get into difficulty and how Spanky comes along and saves the day after many a tear ringing situation.

Young Mr. McFarland is surrounded by a fine cast including Ralph Morgan, Phillips Holmes, Rosina Lawrence and Irving Pichel.

This M-G-M picture is nice combination of sentiment and humor.

Orpheum: Same.

Cunningham Meets Romani Twice in Last Track Program

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
New York, March 15 (AP).—The indoor track season reaches a smashing finale this week when Glenn Cunningham, king of American milers, and Archie San Romani, the heir-apparent, hook up in a pair of duels.

They are slated to meet in the classic Columbian mile at the New York Knights of Columbus meet Wednesday—last big invitation board-track event—and again in the Butler relays at Indianapolis Saturday.

Cunningham, beaten only once at a mile this season and then by his fellow Kansan, will be defending the miler he won at the Casey meet last year. In addition to San Romani, he will be opposed by Italy's rapidly improving Luigi Beccali and his perennial rival, Gene Venke. Glenn has won the Columbian mile the last four years.

At Butler Indians' Don Lash and Ray Sears, Butler alumnus, are to run against the Kansas pair.

Cunningham warmed up for this week's efforts by capturing two mile races in Canada in slow times Friday and Saturday, winning at Toronto in 4:18.2 and at Hamilton, Ont., in 4:13.3, while San Romani breezed through a 4:27 mile at the midwest intercollegiate meet at Naperville, Ill.

In addition to the star milers, the pack of the college and club crop is due to appear on St. Patrick's night, including no fewer than seven winners at last Saturday's intercollegiate A. A. meet here, three newly crowned Big Ten champions, and one Central Intercollegiate Conference ruleholder.

Other Track Events

The field for the Casey 600 includes Syracuse's Eddie O'Brien, who took the I. C. 4-A title in 1:13.1, second best time of the season; Charles Betham of Ohio State, winner of the Big Ten half mile; Jimmy Herbert, New York negro hash; Dick Gill of Boston College and Wesley Wallace, Fordham freshman.

Lash takes on his Indiana teammates, Tommy Deckard and Jimmy Smith; Joe McCluskey and the I. C. 4-A champion, Phillips Smith of Rutgers, in the two-mile.

Columbia's Ben Johnson, who took the eastern college spring and broad jump titles, and Marty Glickman of Syracuse, runner up in the dash, meet Lanky Perrin Walker of Georgia Tech, Sammy Richardson of Toledo, and Roscoe Singletary of St. Augustine's College, Raleigh, N. C., in the 60-yard dash.

Lou Burns of Manhattan and Peter Bradley of Princeton, who ran 1:2 in the intercollegiate mile, Bill Ray, who won the 1,000 at Toronto Saturday, Beetham, and Abe Rosenblatt of Michigan Normal comprise the 1,000 yard field.

Sam Allen of Bristow, Okla., and Dartmouth's college champion, Jack Donovan, who have cleaned up all this season's timber-topping features, clash again in the 60-yard high hurdles.

The high jump brings together three college champions, Mel Walker of Ohio State, Big Ten winner; Eddie Burke, Marquette record holder who took the C. I. C. crown, and James Dillingham of Columbia, I. C. 4-A winner.

Dick Ganlon of Columbia, another I. C. 4-A champion, tops the pole vault field.

Schwenk Boys Tame Lions in Cage Tilt

The municipal auditorium was the scene of what proved to be one of the hardest-fought games in the annals of local basketball. The game featured the Lions Boys' Club against the John Schwenk Boys' Club, and was sponsored by the Department of Recreation.

Alderman-at-large John Schwenk started the game by throwing up the first bell. It was anyone's victory until the end of the last quarter when the Schwenk Boys' Club forged ahead with a few clever plays to win 29-24. Vince Norton led the Schwenk boys in scoring, tallying a total of seven points. Sonny Barnes of the Lions' team led his team mates with nine points.

A preliminary game between the second teams of both clubs also brought in a victory for the Schwenk Boys by a score of 28-2. Al Thomas leading with ten points. "Whitey" Wohleb scored two of the three points for the Lions' boys.

This was the first of a series of games to be played between the various boys' clubs under the direction of the local Department of Recreation. The Rotary Boys are anxious to avenge their 20-25 defeat at the hands of the Schwenk Boys last year, and this will probably be the next game in the club series.

Airedale Captures Cleveland Dog Show

Cleveland, March 15 (AP).—Bigus Tribble, an Airedale Lassie Lady of White Plains, N. Y., held the championship of the Cleveland dog show today.

J. Mac Williams of New York selected the 20-month-old English-born dog last night as best of show after she had been named best of the terriers. She is owned by Hiram S. Fisher, New York, "Miracle" newspaper managing editor, and was trained by Tom Garey of Long Island, N. Y.

Leading Man

throughout his varsity career, Matt Carey's light has been hidden under a bushel. The husky little quarter-miler who captains the Manhattan College indoor track team has had few opportunities for glory because he has run the first leg on the mile relay teams. Manhattan's mile relay teams for the past three years have been standouts, but few spectators remember any runners except the anchor man.

Carey is ideally suited for the first leg. He is a fast starter, a great fighter. Once in front he knows how to stay there. Getting the jump in a relay race is very important, especially on the small indoor tracks. Rarely, if ever, was he headed when the batons were passed to the second runner.

Runs Alone, Too.

Manhattan's string of successes on the boards this winter was made possible largely by Carey's ability to get out in front at the gun. Carey is a fine runner in individual competition.

Martin Leads Gun Club With 49 Score

Sixteen attended the shoot at the Ulster County Gun Club Sunday, and 1,600 targets were thrown. The high spot of the day was Bob Martin breaking another 25 straight, with preceding score of 24 to make it 49 out of 50. On his first hundred of the March team match, Martin's score is 95 out of 100.

The March teams finished the March 6 scores with totals of: 241 Cuniff's, 250 Koenig's.

With one score missing from each team, the March 13 totals are Cuniff's 213, Koenig's 210, and with half the match over and one score missing on each team the totals are: Koenig's 460, Cuniff's 454.

Sunday's team scores are:

Cuniff 19+23=42
Martin 24+26=49

The traps will be open again next Sunday at 10:30, but there will be no shooting on Saturday.

Last Sunday nobody wanted any 16 yard targets, but if at any time enough request it, 16 yard shooting will be available.

The road in to the grounds is in good condition and there is plenty of parking space and a good warm club house. Visitors are always welcome.

Y.M.C.A. Program Proving PopularMEDICINE MAN USES SCIENCE AND HERBS*Upholds Native Lore in Treatment of Ailments.

According to the report of Chairman Emil G. Boesneck and Charles A. Henke the physical department of the local Y. M. C. A. has not only tripled in the various activities over last year but also shows that the participation has reached the high peak of 3,500. Through the work of Mr. Henke, who is popular with the members, the program in six months has gone beyond the expectations of the Board of Directors.

There has been a fine increase in the Business Men's volleyball classes through the earnest efforts of the group. Several of the men who were enthusiastic about the game have returned as members again.

The business men of the city have become exceedingly interested in badminton. It is said to have the same fascination that golf has in the summer. Chairman A. B. Shufeldt of the special committee to furnish more space for the game has been fostering the plan for the renovation of the old auditorium into a gym. The addition of several courts would warrant the formation of a badminton club.

The Church Basketball League and the Senior House League have had several lively battles, which have created an interest among the basketball fans.

There has been evidenced so much interest in the crafts, which are being conducted in the boys' department, that Boys' Secretary Francis Phillips and Chairman Dr. Julian J. Gifford have had to move to a larger room in the basement. There the equipment for woodcraft, woodburning, metal designing and leather crafts have been set up with arrangement to have each boy keep his projects in a lock cupboard. The Y. M. C. A. is indebted to Mr. Hodder of the Kingston High School, who is endeavoring to secure craft assistants to supervise the classes.

The Hi-Y program is proving popular. Besides the Senior Hi-Y and the Junior Hi-Y there is to be formed still another group within the next week. The Junior Hi-Y which was just organized this past fall now has an enrollment of over 20. Meetings are held under the supervision of De Witt Wells of the High School Faculty. The Senior Hi-Y, along with the Girls Hi-Y and the Tri-Hi Club of the Y. W. C. A. are holding dancing classes at the "Y" Gym each evening for Senior and Junior High School girls and boys. Paul Yocan is the instructor.

Mr. Phillips has been exceedingly energetic since taking over the boys' department and has reorganized the following new clubs: "Y's", and Speedsters. These boys are too old for the Friendly Indians and have now become members of the student B's.

The month has been one of great importance because of the major issue, the financial campaign, which has taken much thought.

Inspiring have been the gifts which have been received from the following: Magazine stand, Mrs. George Dubois; floor lamp, Miss Treadwell; walnut table and mat, Mrs. E. A. Chisolm; mission chair, William Wright; two beds for the Dormitory, Mrs. C. S. Treadwell; new equipment for the Men's Laundry. Harry Friedman; set of Pathfinders, Emil G. Boesneck; two Mohair chairs, Joan Schwenk; six Literary Digests and American Business, Russell Broughton; repairs to the billiard table cover, Adam Baranovich.

The National Youth members under the guidance of Herman Latour, local upholsterer, have covered the cushions and backs of chairs. The former finish has been removed from the wood and attractive old antique finish with a grey tone has been brought about harmonizing with the new upholstering.

The "Y" Couples club under the leadership of Russell Broughton held a costume party and district school under the direction of Dewitt Wells. The Ladies' Auxiliary has secured several new members. This organization has been of great service to the local Y. M. C. A. aiding in serving the many supporters for committee meetings, board of directors, etc. Their work has greatly aided in making the Y. M. C. A. more homelike and attractive.

President Clarence Dunn and Secretary Robert L. Sisson thank all who have helped bring about the achievements of the past six months. Only with the help of the legions of friends are we able to make the work of the Kingston Young Men's Christian Association an important factor in the development of our young citizenry, they stated.

They were both chasing the same group of whales and collided just after the first catch. Both vessels were damaged slightly.

"It isn't often that three whales are killed by one harpoon," Capt. Wilhelm Dahlberg, of the C. P. Robinson, said. "Sometimes when we get into a school of small whales a harpoon goes through more than one. This was a school of small sperm."

The harpoon went through the three whales, exploding beyond them and leaving them strung on the line. Two of them were nearly dead and died when the crew started blowing them up with air to keep them afloat. The third had to be killed with another harpoon.

Honolulu, Hawaii.—Honolulu has at least one physician who can blend the secrets of the ancient Hawaiian herbalists with the X-ray and the therapeutics of modern medical science.

He is Dr. Alexander K. Kaonohi, a "kahuna," or native medicine man, and the grandson of one of the most famous of the mystery medicine men of Hawaii. His modern scientific training was obtained at Chicago.

He has twelve men employed gathering his herbs on the islands of the territory. Twelve to fifteen bags of these are reduced weekly to medicinal solutions.

"Our ancestors cured ailments by these means for hundreds of years," Dr. Kaonohi said. "They could heal a fracture in five days. They could treat any ailment known in those days and were especially successful with dropsy and asthma. It would surprise you to know how closely some of their methods approach those in use today.

"They used psychiatry or mental suggestion. They also used color therapy, making the color of the medicine harmonize with the disease. They knew the use of iodine-containing seaweeds and seashore plants. They used earths that contain mineral salts and radium. They gave sweat baths as the ancient Romans did and used hypnotism combined with soothing draughts to alleviate pains of childbirth.

"For hundreds of years, too, Hawaiian babies grew up without ever tasting cows' milk."

Even with a modern diploma that covers anatomy and physiology, Dr. Kaonohi said he really learned most of those branches by experimenting on animals under the lead of his grandfather, who was trained in the old Hawaiian school.

New "Lung" Tube Prevents Blowouts for Motorists

Milano.—No more blowouts for Italian motorists!

ingeniously based on the structure of the human lung, an inner tube which is guaranteed to withstand anything from a horseshoe nail to a sewing needle has been perfected by Italian tire makers.

The tube consists of two cylinders.

The outside one is divided into several hundred tiny compartments and is connected to the inside air chamber similar to those actually in use. When the innermost tube is filled with air the outer chamber is squeezed flat.

In case of a puncture only a few, at most, of the compartments of the "lung" become cut. The other compartments expand and fill the space left empty, thus causing no notable softening of the whole tire.

Linguist Is Arrested, Then Talks Way Out

Chicago.—His demonstration that he could speak at least seven languages of the forty-eight he claims to know won dismissal on a charge of disorderly conduct for Morris Levin, twenty-eight years old.

Levin told the Municipal court Judge that he is a "negro Arabian Jew" and was born in Jaffa, Palestine, the son of a rabbi. His father, he said, tutored him in languages, and he works when he can as a translator. He was arrested while loitering near his home.

Attorneys, litigants, and spectators in the court tested him in Gaelic, Polish, Italian, Hebrew, Hungarian, Albanian, and Bohemian, and he satisfied each of them that he was familiar with the language spoken. He fell down on Clasic Latin and Greek.

President Clarence Dunn and Secretary Robert L. Sisson thank all who have helped bring about the achievements of the past six months. Only with the help of the legions of friends are we able to make the work of the Kingston Young Men's Christian Association an important factor in the development of our young citizenry, they stated.

"Their length varies from 18 inches for toddlers to about 10 feet for adults. Like other footgear, skis must fit, but they fit the wearer's height instead of his feet; usually they are as long as the height of the wearer's reach.

"About 80 winter playgrounds are scattered through the Poconos and the Alleghenies in Pennsylvania, the Catskills and Adirondacks in New York, the Green mountains in Vermont, the White mountains in New Hampshire, the Berkshires in Massachusetts and Connecticut, and the Rockies and coast ranges of the Far West. Ski trains pour city sportsmen into mountain hamlets which would otherwise be completely snowbound."

In at least one respect, 1937 got off to a bad start. Reports collected by the National Board of Fire Underwriters show that an unusually large number of false fire alarms were deliberately turned in on New Year's

GOOD FORM FOR PISTOL SHOOTING

Washington, D. C.—This winter the popular sports slogan is "Go North, Young Man—and bring the ladies, too," says the National Geographic Society.

"Ski trains plow northward from big cities, their cozy 'snow coaches' laden with skis, ski poles, skiers, and would-be skiers. Ski planes operate from Chicago. And 'snow boats' have been leaving New York harbor to give passengers several weeks of slides and tumbles at the famous ski centers of Europe.

"Department stores offer a free lesson with each ski suit, or practice on board-covered runs to try out a set of skis. An international winter sports meet was held in New York City, transplanting skiing to an indoor Arctic, homemade with air-conditioning and machines for flaking 500 tons of ice into 'snow.' The ski slide came down from the rafters of Madison Square Garden.

"This burst of enthusiasm clinches an amazing development of skiing as a sport. Eighty years ago a ski was all for utility and not for sport. It served as the heavy substitute for a galosh or a hip boot by Scandinavians who had to trudge through heavy snows. Hunters skied from trap to trap over drifted forest trails. Then some original spirit, not weary with hunting or fishing or running errands, had the idea that skiing might be fun.

New Sport Is Born.

"In the Telemark district of Norway, about 1860, probably with no thought beyond fresh air and rivalry and healthy play, some unsung pioneers started skiing competitions, and the new sport was born. Soon the whole world welcomed wings for its toes. Equipment was simple: some snowy slopes, two skis, two poles to push or brake progress, and two knees not prone to tremble.

"The ski itself has gone through several transformations. The name comes from an Icelandic word for 'piece of wood,' but four centuries ago it applied also to leather shoes three feet long, with pointed toes curled up and the rear end fastening around the ankle. An earlier variation was a wooden ski with tips like prows of ancient Viking ships, curving either in or out in scroll-like curl.

"Now the national sport of Norway, ski-running has long been at home in that country. Legend claims that the first Scandinavian, named Nor, actually reached his peninsula home on skis. Early settlers soon started a ski-shod god of winter, Skade. Skiing Norwegians a thousand years ago astounded their enemies by leaping from mountain ledges and sliding on down slopes without injury. A picture of a ski-runner, carved on a rune stone near Upsala, is believed to date from the Eleventh century.

"Skiing is essential to snowbound Lapps when the Arctic winter descends upon the top of the Scandinavian peninsula. They do not use two ski poles. Their pole is a handy weapon against wolves which may attack reindeer herds; therefore only one is carried, since an additional one would only become entangled in the fray.
